Ladies' Aid bazaar is receiving splendid patronage. A full account will be published in next week's issue. The Travers bazaar, which is being held next Wednesday, will have a program largely assisted by Lomond talent.

In another column of this paper appears the legal notice of Mr. W. Brooks Waters, B.A. Mr. Waters is a capable young lawyer of integrity and ability. He graduated from Osgoode Hall, Toronto, in 1910 and has since been practicing his profession in Calgary. It is his intention to visit Lomond for one day every fortnight in the near future. Any person in need of legal advice or assistance would do well to get in touch with Mr. Waters.

Mil. Colwell is sporting a new McLaughlin automobile.

Born—On Thursday, Nov. 9, to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Cochran, a son.

South Alberta is entertaining a fine healthy, young winter these days.

There will be an article in The Press next week on the municipal doctor scheme now under way.

Those who have purchased cars from W. A. Teskey this week are Andrew W. Tulloch, Harry Clark, Robert Bell, C. J. and Walter Shaw, Wm. Couch and Andrew Paul. A timely caution from Mr. Teskey to new Ford owners is to be careful of the water in the radiators now that cold weather has set in. When you pull in at night turn your water cock before you stop your engine so that you don't walk away and forget it. If you leave your car standing outside even for a few minutes cover the radiator with a robe or some warm covering. Don't take any chances on letting the water freeze at any time or you are liable to have burst pipes.

Mrs. Crum has returned to town and re-opened her restaurant and is again serving her numerous patrons.

W. H. Smith sold J. Cotton a Chevrolet car this week.

Ira Donily and Geo. Leeming are at Banff with the Lomond party of invalids who are taking hot baths.

Jack Marshall, of Vulcan, motored over to Lomond on Monday.

A. Parker is feeding some 300 head of shoats in his yards at Travers.

The Standard bank has opened a branch in Travers. It is being operated by the Lomond staff until the appointed staff arrives.

Don't fail to hear the patriotic services in the Oddfellows Hall Sunday night.

In connection with the combination auction sale on Saturday, Nov. 18, H. E. Elves, the auctioneer, states that listings already in include some fine work horses and a few head of pure bred cattle, as well as machinery furniture, etc. A dandy sale is anticipated.

PATRIOTIC SERVICE!

Hon. Jas. McNaughton, M. P., T. M. Tweedie, M. P., and W. A. Buchanan, M. P., to speak in Lomond Sunday Night

Last Saturday evening W. A. Buchanan, M. P., and T. M. Tweedie, M. P., president of the South Alberta patriotic fund society, were in Lomond on their way to hold patriotic meetings at Burdick, Midway and Bow City on Sunday.

A number of those who are in the patriotic work heart and soul so to speak interviewed the speakers and prevailed upon them to address a gathering of the men who had assembled in the pool room in the hope that there would be speaking somewhere in town. The president, Mr. R. R. Saunders, introducing the speakers, said that he regretted very much that the arrival of the distinguished travellers was too late to call a meeting in the hall where ladies might be present. However, the men in town were notified hurriedly and there were about fifty gathered in the pool room to listen to the two short but rousing addresses upon Canada and our part in the war and our opportunity as stay-at-homes to assist the country we call our home.

MEETING AT MIDWAY

On Sunday afternoon several auto loads motored out to Midway school house to attend the patriotic meeting held there. A very goodly number of the country folk also turned out and the school house was quite packed at three o'clock. There being no patriotic organization at Midway it devolved upon the vice-president of the Lomond Society, H. E. Elves to act as chairman of the meeting. After a few brief remarks by the chairman Mr. Buchanan was presented to the audience. Mr. Buchanan dwelt at considerable length on why Canada is in the war, explaining very clearly that this is as much our war as it is any nation's, that the issues at stake are as vital to us as to England, Belgium or France. That upon the outbreak of the war the voice of humanity, the voice of justice and the voice of duty rang out, and the fact that Canada did not turn a deaf ear to these calls is something that will be chronicled in history as a deed of honor—something our posterity will be proud of. Mr. Buchanan touched briefly upon the different patriotic organizations, paying tribute to the magnificent work of the Red Cross in the hospitals and upon the battlefield, and describing the support of the patriotic fund as one of duty to the dependents of the men who have offered their lives for our country.

Mr. Tweedie, who was next introduced, immediately fell to an explanation of the origin of the patriotic society and an analysis of the noble work being done by the society, to which work Mr. Tweedie has given most of his time indefatigably for two years and over. The functions of the fund and the methods of the distribution thereof, which are so little understood by the majority of us, were clearly explained. Many acts of sacrifice from people were described but none could compare with the sacrifice of loved ones who were the support of the little ones. Our first and most important duty as fellow-citizens is to see to it that these bereaved ones and these little ones shall not suffer and shall not want.

Deviating from the patriotic fund, Mr. Tweedie burst forth into an eloquent eulogy of the British Empire; its statesmen and its institutions; its poets of immortal memory, its advancement in the cause of righteousness; its wars for the amelioration of the oppressed mankind and for its profound love of justice and liberty.

Mr. Tweedie closed his address with an earnest appeal to all to do their bit in support of the patriotic fund.

It would be hard to add to the remarks of these two patriots at this meeting but we venture to say that those upon whose ears these bits of British history fell, if never before, are now proud of their heritage of British citizenship. A knowledge of British history is all that is needed to make a Britisher's pulse beat fast at the sound of the National Anthem or The Maple Leaf Forever.

Before the close of the meeting a strong committee was formed and no doubt we will hear of good work being done at Midway. The members of the committee are: Mr. and Mrs. Glen Ficht, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Little, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. E. Colwell, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Whipple, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Anderberg, Mr. and Mrs. Burton, A. J. Paul, Wm. Mapletoft and Miss Hamn.

LOCALETS

Chas. Adams has commenced the construction of a new residence on Centre Street, opposite the church, and will move his family to town to take advantage of the educational facilities.

J. Bowers has purchased a new Chevrolet car from the Lomond agent, W. H. Smith.

Orbie Baker made a flying trip by auto to Nanton on Monday in search of a printer for The Press office. The man was scheduled to be on the job on Thursday but cogs slipped somewhere and The Press is trying to circulate without help again this week. It is sincerely hoped that this is the last spasm under these circumstances.

S. G. Carscallen of the Sun Life Insurance Co., of Calgary, and E. G. Paddon of the E. G. Paddon Hardware Co., were in town a few days this week.

W. B. Manning returned on Tuesday from his auto trip to Three Hills and Innesfail, where he spent a week visiting his sons. Mr. Manning is delighted with the picturesqueness of the district to the north and intends returning in a short time to participate in a big deer hunt with a party from Innesfail. We hope Mr. Manning will not forget to fetch us a strip of venison upon his return. Mrs. Manning remained in the north to spend several weeks with her sons.

E. W. Dawson loaded out his effects this week destined for Okotoks where he has bought a ranch. The district will miss Mr. Dawson for though yet a young man, he was one of the pioneers of this part and was an energetic and honorable citizen.

LOCALETS

There has been considerable excitement in town this week over the U. S. election. Betting was indulged in quite freely. At time of going to press it was as though the Wilsonites are winners by a narrow margin.

J. H. Doane has commenced building a residence on First Street north.

We would like to innumerate all the new buildings being erected in the rural districts but this is impossible, as there are so many.

It has been quite widely rumored that the Lomond branch of the Standard Bank was robbed Monday night. Investigation goes to show that there is some truth in this report, for a new junior who arrived here from Lethbridge after dark Monday night couldn't be located after sunrise Tuesday morning, and hasn't been heard of since. However, we are happy to say that the funds of the bank were hot touched and we cannot understand why daylight in Lomond should so startle a young man from Lethbridge and cause him to beat it, but it may be a case where the bank was robbed of its junior.

Chris. Koch has purchased a new Chalmers Six. Jas. Marshall negotiated the deal.

ARMADA

Threshing is practically finished.

Can Lomond business men explain why Lomond elevators are blocked and at the same time Travers and other towns are getting enough empties to keep the crop moving. We at Armada have a pile of money to spend in Lomond and we don't want to leave loaded wagons unprotected in village streets and ride bareback home.

Ray Beagle is speeding his new Maxwell and Glen Dawson is sporting a Ford.

We believe the record yield for wheat goes to T. M. Wilson at 42 bushels and for oats to John Egle at 92 bushels.

F. Syvret, formerly of this district, was recently killed near Courcellette in a charge on a German trench.

The ladies of Armada gave Mrs. D. J. Cotton a surprise party at her residence on the afternoon of October 27th. Mrs. Cotton is an old resident in this district and is held in general respect by all. She is leaving here and expects to visit her daughters in South Dakota and Iowa and friends on one of the circuits her late husband served. The ladies gathered for a farewell surprise party and left various useful gifts behind as tokens of their esteem. Mrs. Cotton will be greatly missed, particularly so in the church, where she was a regular attendant and faithful worker.

There are a lot of new phonographs in the neighborhood. A record exchange should be instituted.

LOMOND, NOVEMBER 10, 1916.

The Press Apologizes.

In the issue of Oct. 13th. was published an article headed "shirkers" in which insinuations were directed against T. M. Tweedie, M.P.P., of Calgary, and W. A. Buchanan, M.P., of Lethbridge in connection with their failure to be present at patriotic meetings in the vicinity on the previous Sunday. We had no foundation whatever for the statements concerning these two gentlemen. We learn that it was only the condition of the roads which prevented them from being present at these meetings and we have also learned that Messrs. Tweedie and Buchanan have been contributing their services for patriotic work ever since the war commenced. They are not government officials but are elected representatives of the people. Mr. Tweedie is president of the South Alberta branch of the Patriotic Fund and for the past two years has devoted practically his entire time to this work at his personal expense. Mr. Buchanan also has generally given his services for the promotion of all patriotic causes. Having been advised of the reason for these gentlemen not being able to attend the meetings as first arranged and of their self-sacrificing work for patriotic causes, we desire to sincerely apologize for the statements made concerning Messrs. Tweedie and Buchanan and wish to retract the same, they being unfounded and unfair.

The Lomond Roads.

Some prominent Bow City farmers were in Lomond on Thursday and some of the things they said about the roads leading into Lomond from their district are well worth consideration. Lomond is three miles closer to them than Travers, but it takes an hour longer to make the trip. (In case Travers should begin to puff up, we here mention that these conditions in favor of that town are purely topographical and in no sense due to any effort made by her citizens and business men). But what gets The Press is why such conditions should be allowed to prevail—and more than that, why the apparent bungle has not been cleared up long before this. The Hon.

Jas. McNaughton has generously given us a bit of information as far as he was concerned in the matter. In 1915 he was approached to see if the government would assist in the opening of the new road running east. The 1915 Council was assured that if it would provide the road allowance the government would do the grading. The grading outfit was set to work and the tale of grader sounds like a Jesse James dime novel. First one farmer would refuse to let them on the land until settlement was made for the property and then another would demand that the fence be first moved and a new, and perhaps better one, built in its place. This went on till the grading contractor got disgusted and pulled his outfit away.

This is Mr. McNaughton's story and we publish it in good faith. By this it is very apparent that Lomond might well have had a good road if affairs had been managed concurrently.

If any one feels that there is another side to this question, The Press will freely give space to his views. But what is most urgently recommended is an organized pressure toward having this road and others leading into town properly graded so that the farmers can market their crop with a minimum expenditure of energy and money.

The Press is also informed that the provincial government is prepared to advance dollar for dollar with the municipal council for road improvement work anywhere necessary within the boundaries of the municipality.

Councillor Couper informs The Press that an appropriation was made that would cover the fixing of the south road leading to town, but the council as a body turned down a motion of his to pay a man and team $4.50 a day (in place of $4.00 as authorized) and no one could be hired to work for less money.

AMETHYST

Nov. 7th.—Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Anderson, a son, on Sunday, Nov. 5th. Mother and child are both doing fine.

George and Frank Hill have been home again for a short time finishing up their farm work for this fall.

Miss Bessie Moss, Miss Davis, Mr. Web Bride and Mr. Josh Creighton took dinner with Mrs. Annie Armstrong on Sunday. All report having a good time.

Mr. Rastus Ostead has been on the sick list lately.

Bert Gorham and Norris Hanna were visitors at Mrs. Mary Hill's on Sunday.

Miss Ethel Armstrong and Orbie Baker took supper with Miss Armstrong's mother on Sunday at Amethyst.

Our road workers are leaving for Majorville shortly. We are sorry to see them go as there is yet plenty of roads that need fixing in this neighborhood.

B. Peterson had the misfortune to have a yearling calf break its leg.

On Thursday, Nov. 2nd, Laurie Armstrong lost all his bundles and prairie hay by prairie fire. Several neighbors ran to help put it out but that hard wind was too strong. It is too bad, but still it was lucky that they did not lose the barn and other buildings.

The Ladies Aid will meet with Mrs. Seth Somerville on Thursday, Nov. 16. Everybody be sure and come as the ladies have not been as regular as they should lately.

Neil Currie has been laid up with a very lame foot. He feared that blood poison had set in.

Ralph Groves had the misfortune to sprain his ankle while pitching bundles on Bob Alexander's threshing machine.

Glen Armstrong has returned to Amethyst after spending a few weeks at Yetwood on his farm.

Summer Swanson was seen out in our neighborhood on Sunday. Wonder what the attractions are out here?

Mrs. Mary Hill is having her house sided up these days.

Little Wyaine Reid has been laid up with a very bad cold the past week.

Lars Anderson, Bob Alexander and Bert Somerville all three are getting nearer together in Last Chance Corner and it is hoped that they soon will get all the threshing finished for this year.

Mr. Salisbury is a real busy man these days getting ready for his social. We all hope to have a good time but this goes to press too early to give an account of the affair, but trust you will be there to see for yourselves.

BADGER LAKE

P. Thompson has bought the A. D. McDonald half section.

It is rumored that the Badger Lake ladies propose giving a fowl supper at a date not far distant.

Grant Haynes is "figgerin'" on a new residence. Beats all what style our merchants will put on.

Threshing is all finished in this district. Erickson's machine finished up the last job on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Reeves and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Grant, of Vulcan, motored over from Vulcan on Sunday and called on Mr. and Mrs. R. King.

BOW CITY

A great rush it on at the coal mine these days and the principle of "come early and avoid the rush" has to be observed to the limit to be workable. However, manager Westgate has a good staff of men on and no team goes home empty.

Hallowe'en was observed here by a representative gathering at the parsonage, where, after a short program, some Hallowe'en stunts were pulled off. Also some that were not on the program, such as one sprinter colliding with the back yard clothes line. The line did not break, neither did his head, but both were severely tested.

Messrs. Buchanan and Tweedie held three meetings last Sunday in the interests of the Patriotic Fund. Committees were appointed at Burdock and Midway and the day was ended by a rousing meeting in Bow City hall.

It is rumoured that Eyremore school district aims to raise $1,000 for the Patriotic Fund. This is a small district and no town in it either, but the city of seven houses. Go to it, Bow City! If you can reach four figures with no elevator, a town of five elevators should reach five figures.

It is to be regretted that Mr. Buchanan and Mr. Tweedie did not get to Kinnondale hall Saturday night. However, they were in no sense to blame as they were not notified of the meeting. It was understood that they would be out Saturday in any case, and the ones responsible for the disappointment to Kinnondale will do well to be more sure of their arrangements in future.

First Use Of Asphyxiating Gas.

Germany, with all the other powers, signed this declaration at The Hague:

"The contracting parties agree not to use projectiles which have for their sole aim to spread asphyxiating or deleterious gases." The ink was hardly dry on the paper when German chemists received instructions, secret but precise, from the Imperial and Royal Government, while other peoples, civilized or even half-barbarous, held themselves bound by their word.

The abominable felony, which had been long prepared, was committed for the first time on April 22, 1915, in an attack against the division of General Putz in the neighborhood of Langemark, Belgium, a yellow smoke, coming from the German trenches and driven by the north wind, suddenly swept down on our lines. Marshall French's report said:

"The effect of the poisonous vapors was so violent that all action was impossible over the whole ground occupied by the French division." Hundreds of men fell asphyxiated, writhing in frightful pain. Others, stupefied and staggering, coughing streams of blood, fell back in all haste out of the zone of the gas; they abandoned thirty cannon. There had not yet been, in all history so infamous a victory. There shall not be one to cost the victors dearer.

Had the English been the victims instead of being only the witnesses, of such treachery, they could not have experienced more horror. Necessarily, it released our allies and ourselves—the chemistry of war was created. Several hundred English chemists set to work, coolly, resolutely patiently. To those who saw them at their work they were the executioners of justice. The German lines which extend more than sixty miles in Belgium and France facing the English lines know now what it costs a people to become the accomplices of a government of treachery, ferocity and crime. There is sometimes even human justice. There may be pity for the individual. No one in the world will have pity for the army and nation—for they have chosen to stand or fall with imperial felony. Honor, after their fashion, and profit they may have had from it—but not victory. And they must pay for it. Two hundred dead German soldiers in one row, dead from English gases, tell the rest.—Ex.

Perhaps the Bassano Mail would be pleased to learn that its old magisterial friend, John Morden, was in Lomond this week.

The new C.P.R. time-table starts the train out of Lomond at eight in the morning but does not appear to be any more effective than the old time-table toward bringing the train in at a regular hour in the evening.
